

Ben Williams

Chair
VP & CIO
Devon Energy

Ben Williams joined Devon Energy Corporation in 2010 as Vice President and Chief Information Officer and is responsible for managing all aspects of information technology for one of the largest producers of Oil and Gas in North America. Prior to joining Devon, Ben worked for KPMG as a leader in the Energy Industry practice focused on information technology performance improvement and transformation working with IT leaders of some of the largest companies in the world. As a consultant and IT leader in the Energy Industry Ben has focused on aligning business strategy, talented people, and innovative technology to maximize the value created for the industry and the community. Ben graduated from Rice University in 1995 with a Bachelor of Science Degree in Mechanical Engineering.